The Board endorsed the Record as follows:

"On November 13th, 1961, the Board dismissed the application made by the applicant, The Trenton Construction Workers Association, Local No. 52, affiliated with the Christian Labour Association of Canada to be certified for a unit of employees of the respondent, Tange Company Limited. On May 2nd, 1963, an order quashing the Board's decision was made by Chief Justice McRuer of the High Court.

Having regard to the order of the High Court, the Board finds that the applicant in this case is a trade union within the meaning of section 1(1)(j) of The Labour Relations Act."

The Board endorsed the Record in part as follows:

"The applicant alleges that the application is one falling within section 92 of The Labour Relations Act. At the hearing in this matter the applicant did not adduce any evidence to show that it is a trade union that according to established trade union practice pertains to the construction industry. In the circumstances the Board is unable to find that the application is one falling within section 92 of The Labour Relations Act."
